

lives on wild fruits and grains; it runs quickly upon the ground; its flight is short and heavy; and its voice is powerful and disagreeable.

The parrakoua frequents, in general, the most open spots, the least impervious woods, and even the savannahs.