

terior, and the latter deposited by the ocean. In the bed from which this block was extracted, were found teeth of the caiman (a species of crocodile),

TAB. 11.—HUMAN SKELETON FROM GUADALOUPE.

In the Museum at Paris.

stone hatchets, and a piece of wood, having rudely sculptured on one side a mask, and on the other the figure of an enormous frog: it is of guaiacum, but has become extremely hard, and as black as jet.

53. IMPRESSIONS OF HUMAN FEET IN SANDSTONE. — In connexion with the occurrence of human bones in limestone, I will here notice a discovery of the highest interest, but which has not,