

	PAGE
CHAP. II. Natural and Geological Proofs for a Commence- ment of our present Terrestrial Economy, . . .	226
III. On the Strength of the Evidences for a God in the Phenomena of Visible and External Nature, . . .	250

BOOK III.

PROOFS FOR THE BEING AND CHARACTER OF GOD IN THE CONSTITUTION OF THE HUMAN MIND.

CHAP. I. General Considerations on the Evidence afforded by the Phenomena and Constitution of the Human mind for the Being of a God, . . .	280
II. On the Supremacy of Conscience,	305
III. On the inherent Pleasure of the Virtuous, and Misery of the Vicious Affections,	332
IV. The Power and Operation of Habit,	368