

A.D.		Yards.
1833.	Seathorn Church (now in ruins), by Mr. Hatfield ..	417 $\frac{1}{2}$
1832.	Middle of the road opposite the ruin, by ditto	278
1833.	Intake Farm-house, west end, by ditto	312
1786.	Holmpton Church to the cliff, by Mr. Tuke	1200
1833.	Ditto to the nearest part of the Cliff in Sept., by Mr. H.	1130
1833.	Ruins of the old Chapel at Out Newton, by ditto ..	147
1833.	Beacon on Dimlington, by ditto	48
1833.	Chancel of Easington Church, by Mr. H. and Mr. Pears	968
1833.	Gate leading out of Kilnsea North Field, by ditto ..	327 $\frac{1}{2}$
1833.	The top of the south end of Kilnsea Sea Bank, by ditto	48
1833.	Front wall of the large Farm-house (licensed for di- vine service)	58
1833.	Old Church-yard Gate to the Edge of the Cliff, Mr. H.	25 $\frac{1}{4}$
1833.	There remained of the ruins of the Steeple in Sept. . .	4
1833.	From the said Ruin to the extremity of the Church-yard	25 $\frac{1}{2}$
1766.	The Chancel of Kilnsea Church was about	95
1790.	Kilnsea Cross, now erected at Headon, was about. . .	50
1833.	Its place is supposed to be within the Cliff, about. . .	30
1830.	From the middle of the High Light to the extremity .	800
1833.	Ditto measured in September by Mr. Hatfield	434
1833.	From the High Light-house to the Sea eastward . . .	147 $\frac{1}{2}$
1833.	From ditto to the Humber westward, by Mr. Hatfield	114 $\frac{1}{2}$
1833.	Life-boat Inn to the nearest Cliff on the S.E., by ditto	72
1833.	From the sea to the Humber, passing the Light-houses	262
1833.	The great storm in September swept from the point. .	30
1833.	Passing from the High Light towards Kilnsea, the measures of the Long Strand are as follows, viz.—
	At the distance of. . 990 yards the width is found to be	60 $\frac{1}{2}$
	Ditto at. 1760 yards	51 $\frac{1}{2}$
	Ditto at. 3124 yards	42
	Ditto from High Light 3624 yards the breadth is	26 $\frac{1}{2}$
	And at the distance. . 3784 yards from High Light about	42
	At this distance the two shores greatly diverge.	