

INDEX TO VOL. III.

- ACHROMATIC telescopes, 63.
- Adalbert, Prince, of Prussia, his observations on the undulation of the stars, 59.
- Alcor, a star of the constellation Ursa Major, employed by the Persians as a test of vision, 49, 50, 200.
- Alcyone, one of the Pleiades, imagined the center of gravity of the solar system by Mädler, 198.
- Alphonsine Tables, date of their construction, 151.
- Anaxagoras of Clazomenæ, his theory of the world-arranging intelligence, 11; origin of the modern theories of rotatory motion, 12.
- Andromeda's girdle, nebula in, 142.
- Arago, M., letters and communications of, to M. Humboldt, 46, 49, 67, 68, 73, 96, 207-209; on the effect of telescopes on the visibility of the stars, 69; on the velocity of light, 80, 84; on photometry, 92, 96; his cyanometer, 97.
- Aratus, a fragment of the work of Hipparchus preserved in, 109.
- Archimedes, his "Arenarius," 30.
- Arcturus, true diameter of, 89.
- Argelander, his view of the number of the fixed stars, 105, 106; his additions to Bessel's Catalogue, 115; on periodically variable stars, 166.
- η Argus, changes in color and brilliancy of, 135, 178, 179.
- Aristotle, his distinct apprehension of the unity of nature, 13-15; his defective solution of the problem, 15; doubts the infinity of space, 29, 30; his idea of the generation of heat by the movement of the spheres, 124.
- Astrognosy, the domain of the fixed stars, 26-28.
- Astronomy, the observation of groups of fixed stars, the first step in, 118; very bright single stars, the first named, 89.
- Atmosphere, limits of the, 40, 41; effects of an untransparent, 104.
- Augustine, St., cosmical views of, 124.
- Autolycus of Pitane, era of, 89, 90.
- Auzout's object-glasses, 62.
- Bacon, Lord, the earliest views on the velocity of light found in his "Novum Organum," 79.
- Baily, Francis, his revision of De Lalande's Catalogue, 115.
- Bayer's lettering of the stars of any constellation not an evidence of their relative brightness, 98.
- Bérard, Captain, on the change of color of the star γ Crucis, 135.
- Berlin Academy, star maps of the, 116.
- Bessel, on repulsive force, 34, 35; his star maps have been the principal means of the recognition of seven new planets, 116; calculation of the orbits of double stars by, 211.
- Binary stars, 199.
- Blue stars, 136; less frequent than red, 209.
- Blue and green suns, the probable cause of their color, 208.
- Bond, of the Cambridge Observatory, United States, his resolution of the nebula in Andromeda's girdle into small stars, 142.
- Brewster, Sir David. on the dark lines of the prismatic spectra, 44.
- British Association, their edition of Lalande's Catalogue, 115.
- Bruno, Giordano, his cosmical views, 17; his martyrdom, 17.
- Busch, Dr., his estimate of the velocity of light incorrect, 82.
- Catalogues, astronomical, their great importance, 113, 114; future discoveries of planetary bodies mainly dependent on their completeness, 114; list of, 114, 115; Halley's, Flamsteed's, and others, 114; Lalande's, Harding's, Bessel's, 115.
- Catasterisms of Eratosthenes, 89, 90.
- α Centauri, Piazzi Smyth on, 146, 147, 185; the nearest of the fixed stars that have yet been measured, 191, 192.
- Central body for the whole sidereal heavens, existence of, doubtful, 197.
- Chinese record of extraordinary stars (of Ma-tuan-lin), 109, 155-159; deserving of confidence, 162.
- Clusters of stars, or stellar swarms, 140; list of the principal, 141-143.
- Coal-sacks, a portion of the Milky Way in the southern hemisphere so called, 137.
- Colored rings afford a direct measure of the intensity of light, 96.
- Colored stars, 130; evidence of change of color in some, 131, 132; Sir John Herschel's hypothesis, 131; difference of color usually accompanied by difference of brightness, 209.
- Comets, information regarding celestial space, derived from observation on, 31, 39; number of visible ones, 151.
- Concentric rings of stars, a view favored by recent observation, 149.
- Constellations, arrangement of stars into, very gradual, 119.
- Contrasted colors of double stars, 207.
- Cosmical contemplation, extension of, in the Middle Ages, 16.
