

	PAGE
backwoods of America.—The business of the newspaper editor not always an independent one.—A special providence,—employed as accountant of the Branch Bank. The ill-condition of the laboring classes often overdrawn.—Voyage to Edinburgh,—object of the journey.—My stay at Linlithgow.—Organisms of the mountain limestone.—Return to Cromarty.—Comparative educational advantages of the mechanic and the clerk.—Reception of my traditional volume.—The bank proves an admirable school, suited to cultivate a shrewd common sense.—My bridal excursion.—Cathedral of Elgin.—Return to Cromarty.—Stanzas.....	475

CHAPTER XXIV.

Contributions to the "Border Tales."—The reward of "pains-taking research."—Robert Chambers and his journal.—Ichthyolitic deposits of the old red sandstone,—these have no representative among recent fishes.—Mr. Dinkel's alleged restoration of the Cephalaspeans disproved.— Cheiracanthus and Cheirolepis .—Evening excursions to Moray Frith.—Triumph of the Liberals over Presbyterian bigotry.—An ability of efficient squabbling proved to be a very marketable one.—Memoir of William Forsyth.—A sad bereavement.—Stanzas.....	499
---	-----

CHAPTER XXV.

The voluntary controversy.—My uncles become Seceders.—Sympathy with the establishment.—Critical position of the Church,—it is defended in a letter to Lord Brougham,—great success of the pamphlet.—Story of the "Deserted Church."—Become editor of the Witness ,—a non-intrusion paper.—Oratory of Dr. Chalmers,—great orators imperfectly represented in their written speeches.—Anecdotes of Dr. Chalmers.—Brief history of a friend.—Quit Cromarty.—Success of the Witness .—Reflections on the past.....	517
--	-----