

II. Citations for Further Information.

The Author believes it may be of service to the reader to indicate portions of his own writings in which subjects lightly touched in this book may be found further elucidated. The works in the appended list are cited by the numbers prefixed.

1. For graphical illustrations of the general subject, see especially II; but also III, IV and V.
2. Rudimentary guide to systematic study, I.
3. Ampler guide to systematic study, II.
4. Fuller and more scientific treatment of theoretical portions of the general subject, III.
5. Popular descriptions with delineations of terrestrial history yet future, V.
6. Glacial phenomena and scenery, IV.
7. Something fuller on prehistoric man, V, VI. Also McClintock and Strong's Cyclopædia, Article "Preadamites."
8. Ethnology, homes, and migrations of early peoples, VI.
9. The relations of religion and intelligence, VIII, IV.
10. Synopsis of world-theories of Kant, Laplace, Herschel, and others, III, Part IV.
11. The Doctrine of Evolution, VII, IV. But more especially, Encyclopædia Britannica, American Reprint, Supplement, Article "Darwinism;" also, McClintock and Strong's Cyclopædia, Supplement, Article, "Evolution."

III. Other Works by the Author of this Book.

I. Geological Excursions, or the Rudiments of Geology for young Learners, 234 pp. 88 cuts. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

II. Geological Studies, or Elements of Geology for High Schools, Colleges, Normal and other Schools. Part I. Geology Inductively Presented. Part II. Geology Treated Systematically, about 500 pp. 367 Illustrations. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

III. World-Life or Comparative Geology, pp. xxiv+642. 59 illustrations. S. C. Griggs & Co., Chicago.

IV. Sparks from a Geologist's Hammer, pp. 400, with 20 illustrations. Griggs & Co.