

stopping the mouths of gulphs and rivers, and which, by bringing all to a level, will, in the course of time, return this earth to the sea, and which will leave new continents exposed, containing vallies and mountains exactly similar to those which we at present inhabit.