

in size, M. Brongniart asserts they must be considered as gigantic arborescent club-mosses.*

LIGN. 30. Fig. 1.—A BRANCH OF LEPIDODENDRON,
 In Coal-shale, Newcastle.
 2.—One of the scars left by the separation of a leaf. Nat.

* M. Corda, the able continuator of Count Sternberg's beautiful work (Flora der Vorwelt), is of opinion that the