

the establishment and use of External Characters, especially of Crystalline Form, as a fixed character of definite substances; and the attempts to bring into view the connexion of Chemical Constitution and External Properties, made in the shape of mineralogical Systems; both those in which chemical methods of arrangement are adopted, and those which profess to classify by the natural-history method.