

value of this view of theological bearing of physiology, we may venture to say that it is a view quite different from that which is described by speaking of "Final Causes," and one much more difficult to present in a lucid manner to ordinary minds.