

CONTENTS.

---

LECTURE FIRST.

	PAGE
Junction of Geologic and Human History—Scottish History of Modern Date —The Two Periods previous to the Roman Invasion: the Stone Age and the Bronze Age—Geological Deposits of these Prehistoric Periods— The Aboriginal Woods of Scotland—Scotch Mosses consequences of the Roman Invasion—How formed—Deposits, Natural and Artificial, found under them—The Sand Dunes of Scotland—Human Remains and Works of Art found in them—An Old Church disinterred in 1835 on the Coast of Cornwall—Controversy regarding it—Ancient Scotch Barony under- lying the Sand—The Old and New Coast Lines in Scotland—Where chiefly to be observed—Geology the Science of Landscape—Scenery of the Old and New Coast Lines—Date of the Change of Level from the Old to the New Coast Line uncertain—Beyond the Historic, but within the Human Period—Evidences of the fact in remains of Primitive Wea- pons and Ancient Boats—Changes of Level not rare events to the Geologist—Some of these enumerated—The Boulder-Clay—Its preva- lence in the Lowlands of Scotland—Indicated in the Scenery of the Country—The Scratchings on the Boulders accounted for—Produced by the Grating of Icebergs when Scotland was submerged—Direction in which Icebergs floated, from West to East—'Crag and Tail,' the effect of it—Probable Cause of the Westerly Direction of the Current, . . .	1-43

LECTURE SECOND.

Problem first propounded to the Author in a Quarry—The Quarry's Two Deposits, Old Red Sandstone and Boulder Clay—The Boulder-Clay formed while the Land was subsiding—The Groovings and Polishings of the Rocks in the Lower Parts of the Country evidences of the fact—Sir Charles Lyell's Observations on the Canadian Lake District—Close of the Boulder-Clay Record in Scotland—Its Continuance in England into the Pliocene Ages—The Trees and Animals of the Pre-Glacial Periods—Elephants' Tusks found in Scotland and England regarded as the Remains of Giants—Legends concerning them—Marine Deposits beneath