

&c. Lamellibranchiate shells are still more common, such as Mactra, Tellina, Cyprina, Astarte, Pectunculus, Pecten, Cardium, &c. It is not unlikely that

FIG. 53.

Trophon antiquum.

Cassidaria bicatenata. Buccinum Dalei.

Voluta Lamberti.

Astarte Omallii.

Capulus Hungaricus.

Cyprina rustica.

Cardium Parkinsoni.

Pectunculus glycymeris.

Carcharodon megalodon.

Group of Red Crag Fossils.

some of the shells may have been derived from the waste of the Coralline Crag.

At the base of the Coralline Crag, in a pit by the Church near Felixstow, and in other places, there