

when in motion, carries along sediment, drops it when at rest. The moment a current has its rapidity checked, it is

Fig. 151.--View of the erosion of the San Juan, Colorado Basin (Newberry).

deprived of some of its carrying power, and begins to lose hold upon its sediment, which tends more and more to sink