

- Poisson and Faraday's 'Lines of Force,' iii. 577.
- Pollock, Sir Fr., 'Spinoza: his Life and Philosophy,' iii. 121; 'Spinoza and Modern Thought,' 122; in 'Mind,' iv. 395.
- Poncelet, iii. 323, 404.
- Pont de Nemours, Du, iv. 452, 453.
- Pope, the, and 'Les Paroles d'un Croyant,' iv. 405.
- "Positive," double use of the term, iii. 614; Spirit, iv. 665 sqq.
- Positivism, iv. 169; of Comte, 182; 489; 185, 234 sqq.; 275; of Spencer, 371; 679 sqq.; 760 sqq.
- Positivists, iv. 61.
- Pott, A. F., etymological researches, iii. 147.
- Pragmatism (Wm. James), iv. 253, 349, 414, 613, 722.
- Pragmatists, iv. 93.
- "Presentation - continuum," iii. 291; sensory and motor (see Jas. Ward).
- "Presentations," iii. 205.
- "Presentative" Activity and "Presented" Content, iii. 206.
- Prichard, J. C., iv. 514.
- Priestley, iii. 4; Hartley and, 197.
- Pringle-Pattison (Andrew Seth), 'Scottish Philosophy,' iii. 3, 226, 241, 242; iv. 143; 'Hegelianism and Personality,' 373; in 'Hibbert Journal,' 376.
- Projection, Principle of, iii. 323.
- Proudhon, iv. 493, 539.
- Psychological problem, religion a, iii. 163, 172; point of view, iv. 271.
- Psychologism, iv. 607; and Intellectualism, 785.
- Psychology, British introspective, iii. 209; in Germany at beginning of century, 202; British empirical, ib.; Kant and, 237; 339; and Logic, 449; 531, 537; iv. 128; science of, 187, 262; 210; anthropology opposed to, 212; 213, 235 sqq.; 245; and Logic, relation of, 735.
- Puchta, G. F., iii. 455.
- Puffendorf, Samuel, "Naturrecht" or Natural Law, iii. 132; and Helvetius, iv. 138; 'Law of Nature,' 138.
- Quakerism, rise of, iv. 287.
- 'Quarterly Review,' iii. 92, 579; iv. 102.
- Quesnay, F., iv. 452, 453, 454, 456.
- Quetelet, iv. 511.
- Ranke and his school, iii. 150; 'History of the Popes,' 151; "Ideas" of, 151; 152; Conception of History, ib.; 157, 160; iv. 501, 569 sqq.; his Ideenlehre, 570.
- Raphael, iv. 47.
- Rational Psychology, iii. 544, 545.
- Rational Theology, iii. 544, 545; and sensual, relationship of, iv. 160.
- Rationalism, Orthodoxy or, iii. 161; German, 169; iv. 135.
- Ravaisson, iii. 66; 'Rapport,' 94; quoted, 426, 427; 230; 'La Philosophie en France,' 231; 234; iv. 398; quoted, 484.
- Rawlinson, iii. 154.
- Reactionaries, the, iv. 465.
- Reality, Appearance and, iii. 27; and Knowledge, 293; 442; ultimate, 450, 473, 587; 457; iv. 789; pathway to, iii. 466; or spiritual ground of things, 469; 477, 479, 480, 481; problem of, 482, 484, 488, 490, 505; since Lotze, 506; 508, 509, 510, 511, 516, 518, 521, 523, 525, 526, 527, 529, 533, 542, 544, 592; 483, 485, 494; essence of, 498, 517; 499, 501, 503; moral side of, 507; 512, 514, 534, 536; Bradley's Degrees of, 540; 541; twofold aspect of, 615; problem of, iv. 77, 83, 115, 125; interpretation of, 783.
- Reformation, the, iii. 116, 210, 305, 524; iv. 149, 219, 258, 277, 288, 312, 358.
- Reform Bill, iv. 141.
- Rehmke, J., 'Die Seele des Menschen'— "Essence" and "Life of the Soul," iii. 199; 289.
- Rehnsch, iii. 266; iv. 599.
- Reid, Thos., iii. 3, 4, 8, 188; and Stewart, 202, 232; and Scottish school, 219; iv. 402; iii. 225, 226, 228, 229, 235; psychological insight of, 241; 242, 253; influence on Hamilton, 380; 525; iv. 11; and Butler, 226; 268.
- Reinach, Salomon, iii. 185.
- Reinhold, iii. 125; 'Letters on Kantian Philosophy,' 162, 352; Fichte's correspondence with, 295; 345, 351; at Weimar, 355; 357, 445, 464, 479; iv. 10, 13; chief exponent of Kant's Intellectualism, 21; 57, 172; 595.
- Religion, iii. 158, 159; from psychological point of view, 163; as a credible doctrine, iv. 394.
- Religious ideas, conflict of, iv. 585 sqq.
- Religious interest in England, iv. 681 sqq.