

Introspection the way to unification, 771 ; Study of facts of consciousness, 772 ; Possible reconciliation of the scientific and religious views, 773 ; The Synoptic view, 774 ; Why the atomising process is inadequate, 776 ; Illustration of the right attitude by a picture, 778 ; Regions in the firmament of the soul, 780 ; The definite contrasted with the vague, 781 ; Desire for interpretation of the latter, 783 ; From the less definite region the spiritual world is constructed, 784 ; Of this the physical universe is merely a portion, 784 ; The present Section of this History leads to a study of poetical and religious thought, 786 ; Recent tendencies restated, 786 ; The ultimate reality, 789.

---

INDEX . . . . . 791